EDUCATION JUSTICE PROJECT AT ILLINOIS

UNIT OF THE COLLEGE OF EDUCATION AT THE UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS

DUE OCT 2, 2017

TEACH IN PRISON

The Education Justice Project offers for-credit U of I courses and other educational programs to individuals incarcerated at Danville Correctional Center. We consider it a matter of urgency to expand access to quality higher education, and a matter of justice that people behind bars are included in such efforts. Each fall and spring we accept applications from serious-minded faculty, staff, graduate students, and community members who wish to teach in the program. For-credit course instructors will be paid $3,000/class.

Applicants should have interest in becoming part of a diverse, inclusive, supportive, critical community. Attend one of the events to the left to learn more.
